Improving the Health Sector Response to Gender-Based Violence

This presentation will provide an overview of a new free online course, Gender-Based Violence: We All Can Help – Improving the Health Sector Response. The four-part dynamic and practical multimedia course focuses on understanding, identifying, responding to, and addressing the impacts of gender-based violence.

Objectives:

- ❖ Identify the responsibility of the health sector with respect to gender-based violence.
- ❖ Learn about the LIVES approach as a tool for identifying and responding to gender-based violence.
- ❖ Understand some of the ways gender-based violence impacts health sector workers

Presenters:

Ann Pederson, PhD, Director, Population Health Promotion, BC Women's Hospital and Health Centre

Kate Rossiter, PhD, Research & Projects Manager, Ending Violence Association of BC
