Maternity care for prisoners in Canada: services, challenges, and tools for nurse advocacy

Learning Objectives:

- ❖ Participants will develop an introductory understanding about the provincial and federal corrections landscape in relation to maternity health,
- ❖ Participants will be able to identify the key challenges facing patients and health care providers in this context and,
- ❖ Participants will come away with practical strategies to inform nurse advocacy work.

Presenter: Martha Paynter RN PhD (c)

Martha works as a front line nurse in abortion and postpartum care in Halifax NS. She is a Doctoral Candidate at the Dalhousie University School of Nursing where her research explores the maternal health experiences of incarcerated women. She is the founder of Women's Wellness Within, a registered non profit providing support, advocacy and education for women, transgender and non-binary people experiencing criminalization in pregnancy and postpartum.
